"Tartuffe" is considered as the most popular of Moliere's plays. "Tartuffe" is a 17th century satirical comedy of contemporary society. The theme of the play is based on the hypocrisy of those that chose to hide under the mask of piety.

Judges for the competitive

In 17th Century France it was the custom for the well-to-do and the nobility to have a religious advisor assume charge of the moral affairs of the household. As a guide of conscience the advisor too often took advantage of his position to claim whole estates leaving his benefactor penniless.

Moliere first presented "Tartuffe" in 1664 and it immediately became a controversial issue between nobility, the Church and the King. Under the pressure of the Church and certain officials of the court the King forbade all public performances. It wasn't until 1668 that public performances were again authorized but only with certain modifications, including a new title "The Imposter."

Orgon, a French gentleman, has taken up religion. Tartuffe, a pious impostor, is brought into the house as a religious mentor. He immediately makes plans to seduce the second, but younger wife of Orgon, and to obtain the estate. Two grown children by a former marriage and Orgon's mother see through Tartuffe's duplicity.

Despite their warnings of Tartuffe's purpose Orgon's faith in him is one of complete confidence. It isn't until Orgon allows himself to be hidden under a table and listens to the advances made towards his wife by Tartuffe that he is finally convinced of his error. Tartuffe is unmasked and the household freed of his hypocrisy.

Every MSC student in good academic standing is eligible to try out on Wednesday from 3 to 5 p.m. No previous experience is necessary. Anyone interested may obtain a script in advance of try-outs at the reserve book room.

Student Turnout Discourages Employers

On campus employment interviews with various companies and schools for March are now being scheduled in the Placement Office, according to Mr. Fred Cinotto, Placement Director. Mr. Cinotto urges all seniors to sign up for these interviews. This month's response may determine the number of interviews scheduled in April and the following months, according to Cinotto. "Poor student turn-out would not encourage the return of these interviewers," he said.

Mr. Cinotto stated the on-campus interview scheduling at

Dean of Women In 'Who's Who'

Miss Yvonna A. Wilson, dean of women at Missouri Southern College in Joplin, Missouri, will be listed in the new Seventh Biennial Edition of Who's Who of American Women, according to an announcement by Kenneth Petchenik, a director of Marquis Who's Who Incorporated.

Miss Wilson, a native of Batesville, Arkansas, attended Batesville public schools and was awarded a bachelor of arts degree from Arkansas College of Batesville. She earned the master of education degree at the University of Arkansas. After teaching in the Blytheville school system, she was admissions counselor at Arkansas college. Then she became assistant dean of women at Kansas State College of Emporia and in 1968 was appointed dean of women at Missouri Southern College.

Miss Wilson has served on the official board of the Wesley Foundation of the First United Methodist Church of Emporia and is currently serving on the administrative board of the First United Methodist Church of Joplin. The Who's Who biographer also lists her as an honorary member of Cardinal Key, a national women's leadership honor sorority. Her professional memberships include the Kansas Association of Women Deans and Counselors, the Missouri Association of Women Deans and Counselors, the National Association of Women Deans and Counselors, the Personnel Deans of Missouri State Colleges, the Missouri Association of Junior Colleges, the American Association of University Women and the Missouri State Teachers Association. She has been active in the Arkansas and University of Arkansas alumni associations and historical societies.

Miss Wilson is the daughter of Albert Wilson of route 3, Batesville. She resides at 420 Moffet in Joplin.

MSC is as good as last year. "It is better in comparison with other colleges, which have shown a decrease in interviews," he said.

"There is a decrease in student employment, however, with summer jobs hard to find," Mr. Cinotto said. The competition for jobs has increased tremendously in the last two years, when each applicant had a choice of three to four jobs. Now there are about ten applicants for each job.

Despite Drury Debacle...

Lions, Coach Garner Top District Laurels

John Thomas, Bill Wagner, and head MSC cage coach Frank Davis were recently honored for their performances in District 16 this season. Thomas grabbed a berth on the first All-District 16 squad, Wagner was named to the second All-District team, and Davis was awarded co-honors as District Coach of the Year.

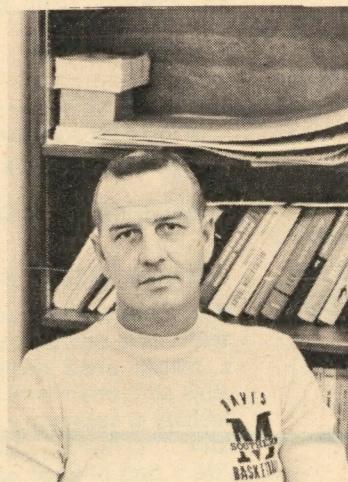

Thomas, one of the District's leading vote receivers, lead the Lions as top scorer and rebounder. The 6-5 sophomore center averaged 17 rebounds per game while scoring at a 17.9 clip per outing.

Wagner, a repeater from last season to the second All-District team, averaged 14.0 points per game and pulled down an average of 9.8 rebounds.

Davis, named as Coach of the Year for District 16 last year, was co-winner of the award this year, along with Jim Didley of Culver-Stockton College. Davis coached the Lions to an 18-6 season record and a spot in the N.A.I.A. District 16 playoffs.

The Lions, rated No. 1 in District 16, whipped Rockhurst College of Kansas City, 80-72 in the opening round of the playoffs. After holding a 48-35 advantage at intermission, the Lions held off a late Rockhurst rally, netting clutch free throws in the final minutes to hand the Hawks the loss.

A heart-breaking 75-70 loss was handed to the Lions by the Drury Panthers in the District finals. Drury hit five free throws in the closing minute, after holding a slim 70-68 margin with 1:50 left in the game. The defeat ruined the Lions' hopes of gaining a berth in the N.A.I.A. National Tournament in Kansas City.
